Canary Zero

is a discreet security concierge delivering tailored cyber risk assessments and digital due diligence services — protecting the privacy, reputation, and operational security of our clients with absolute precision.

We provide elite, covert cyber protection for HNWI, UHNWI and Family Offices. We safeguard digital footprints, mitigate emerging risks and ensure operational security through proactive intelligence, strategic countermeasures and unparalleled discretion.

Threat Intelligence Briefings

Aimed to give our clients up to the minute threat intelligence that is relevant to their business and personal itineraries. These briefings can be delivered remotely over a secure communications channel or in person depending on requirement.

Threat Intel is always tailored around the client's specific needs.

Operational Security - OPSEC

OPSEC is the discipline of identifying, assessing and mitigating risks that could expose sensitive information, plans, or personnel to adversaries. Extending beyond classified information, OPSEC is about adopting the mindset that your adversary is always watching and piecing together information that you readily give away through your actions and routines. Our OPSEC service is all about minimising that risk and ensuring your digital safety.

Communication Security - COMSEC

COMSEC is the practice of protecting information being transmitted, stored or processed through any communications medium. COMSEC involves encryption, secure channels, signals discipline and strict protocols to prevent Interception, Manipulations or Exploitation (IME) by threat actors.

Threat Modelling

Threat Modelling is the process of identifying, analysing, and prioritising potential threats before they materialise. It involves understanding how adversaries might target an individual, their family, or their organisation — mapping out the likely attack paths, motivations, and methods. By anticipating these scenarios, we design proactive defence strategies that minimise exposure, strengthen resilience, and maintain strategic control over risk.

Information Security - INFOSEC

INFOSEC encompasses everything from classifying information to encryption protocols and security controls around critical assets. Information is power, and controlling it is the difference between operational success and failure.

Training & Awareness

We run many training courses and awareness campaigns to help our client base better understand the various aspects of security. These are usually delivered on a small and targeted scale, to ensure confidentiality as well as allowing for more open discussions to take place.

Your core strategic Cybersecurity team

At Canary Zero, our team operates as your trusted inner circle — a discreet network of seasoned intelligence, cybersecurity, and risk professionals dedicated to safeguarding your digital and physical footprint. We combine elite technical capability with strategic foresight, providing bespoke protection that adapts to your lifestyle, business interests, and global movements. Quietly effective and relentlessly vigilant, we ensure your privacy, reputation, and security remain uncompromised.

Sunny Sahota
Founder & CEO

With a background in intelligence and strategic cybersecurity advisory, he leads with discretion, precision, and an unwavering commitment to client protection.

Sam Alderwick
Offensive Cyber

Specialising in advanced penetration testing and red team operations, Sam identifies and exploits vulnerabilities before adversaries can — ensuring our clients' digital environments remain resilient, secure, and uncompromised.

Gareth Whotton
Non-Exec Director

Leverages extensive ex-military experience to deliver thorough assessments of physical, behavioural, and situational risk. Integrating real-world insight with digital intelligence, he analyses routines, movements, and environmental factors to provide clients with a complete, proactive security overview wherever they operate.
